

Dear Dolphins

I hope you are all well .

What a strange week this has been, being at home when we would normally be at school. I hope you are all getting through your learning packs which you took home or may have had dropped through your letter box and are managing to look at Google Classroom where there is some extra exciting Topic work which will get you into the garden searching for minibeasts and such like, stories to listen to and maths work as well if you want to keep that up.

I know it can sometimes be difficult to motivate yourself to keep the learning going, as I am finding out with my own children and trying to get them to keep up the good work.

I have been trying to get out everyday and walk the dog and do some exercise with my children. They are both getting up early and completing the Joe Wicks daily workout at 9am. If any of you are also doing this, well done and if you haven't yet tried it, you should give it a go. Its wonderful to get out and down to the beach if you get the opportunity and collect beach things; shells, stones, pebbles and anything you can find that would be good do some art, or drawings. I'd love to see anything that you produce through these next few weeks

Keep your spirits up in these coming weeks and I am thinking of you all and hope it won't be long before we get back into the classroom. Keep active and keep your brain stimulated. I miss seeing all your lovely faces in the morning.

Thinking of you.

Miss Elliott
