

To my lovely Seals class,

I hope you are all still staying safe and keeping well. It is very sad not seeing your faces everyday and it feels like forever since we have been together as a class. Please brighten up my days by sharing your learning with me through email or on google classroom. I have uploaded some of your work onto our Facebook page and I would love to have more learning to upload.

I have read a beautiful poem that was written and shared online. It thanked key workers in these difficult times and reassured others that there are still wonderful things happening around the world, like flowers blossoming and families spending time with each. I wondered if you could write an uplifting poem to thank the key workers or about the beautiful things to come. My sister-in-law works as a nurse, at a local surgery, and I would love to share the poems and pictures with her so they could be displayed in the surgery. It would definitely put a lovely smile on the doctors and nurses faces. If you could just put your first name at the bottom of your poem/picture and let me know whether you are happy for them to be displayed, that would be amazing.

I have spent a lot of my time recently teaching my two children at home and reminding myself that they are a lot younger than all of you. I expect them to write amazing stories and compete with me when answering maths questions. I definitely miss the competitive times that we had in the classroom and how independent you all were with your learning. My son is trying extremely hard with his writing but I am having to be very patient when reading the same story to him 6 times for him to gain an answer! I am also getting use to being covered in paint and playdough as well as finding it all over my house! You all know how much I like to be tidy, so this is proving very tricky for me.

We have been enjoying the lovely weather at home and I had my first try of a water slide, it was awesome! We put lots of washing-up liquid on the slide and went so fast!

Miss Elliott and I have been uploading lots of work on google classroom for you to complete. Please remember to share your learning so that we can see what you have been up to. We were in 7th place for spelling shed this week!!!!!! Let's try and win our 1st place back!

I will set up another TTRS battle starting Friday 8th May until Friday 15th May. Mrs Clark is very competitive on there and we won last time! Let's see if you can beat us this time.

Take care and keep smiling,

Miss Setterfield x
